

NOT ALL BAD!

Since the advent of home computers into our lives, we've all heard the horror stories of people being scammed, identities being stolen, young children lured into horrific situations and pornographic sites. Seldom is there any mention of anything good as a result of the computer other than the means of communication and storing information. But occasionally something comes along that stimulates your faith in the inherent goodness of people. The following has been making the rounds of the internet world for the last couple of weeks. It first appeared on our home computer from an embroidery Yahoo group that my wife belongs to. It has since been forwarded to us via e-mail from family and friends. There are probably several versions of this in cyber space and, as far as I know, the author is anonymous but there is lots to ponder and put into practice as you read through "God's Positive Answer".

| I feel all alone | I will never leave you or forsake you... | Hebrews 13:5 |

God is continually providing us with His Word and instructions on how we are to travel the narrow path that leads to Heaven while we are here on this earth. We need to take advantage of the technology and tools that are available to us.
