

Welcome to the Lectureship...

Today is the kick off day to begin the 2014 Lectureship of the Southeast Institute of Biblical Studies. We would like to thank you for being here and being part of this event.

We are very excited about the lectureship this year. The program is very impressive and we would like to thank the director and all of the staff for their diligent work and all of the obvious preparation to make the event a success. The lectureship book, Lost Needing Jesus, From Sinner to Saint is already available and we encourage you to get your copy. The book is different from lectureship books from the past in that it is designed to be used in Bible class settings.

We would like to also thank all of the members of the Karns congregation who have volunteered for numerous assignments from organizing dinners, moving furniture, cooking, coordinating, keeping guests in their homes, transportation, and other areas as well. The folks at Karns are proud to have the lectureship and are excited to have the guests.

We enjoy the singing and the privilege to worship this morning with new friends and old friends we have not seen in some time. We look forward to the presentations and are grateful for the speakers and their willingness to take the time to plan, prepare, and present to us.

We hope your visit here is a pleasant one and hope you feel at home here at Karns.
